

ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL

Albuquerque, New Mexico

CHALLENGE

FSG was contracted to install the electrical for the new printing press machines for The Albuquerque Journal. These new machines reduced the size of the printed newspaper to minimize the consumption of paper products the company was using.

SOLUTION

This project took a couple of months to complete. Working in a printing environment is a messy job, but our technicians were up for the task. The project was completed within the customer specified time frame without a hitch.
